OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6th, 1878.

The case of SENATOR PATTERSON, Of South Carolina, is exciting a great deal of comment but not much sympathy. Of course, Democrats never had any for him, but "laugh at his calamities and mock when his fear cometh." Whichever Republicans entertained, he forfeited by the bargain he is believed to have made with Hamburg M. Butler, whereby the interests of the party that had made him all he was were basely traded off for his own personal behoof. Whether true or not, it was generally believed he was assured of Butler's ability and disposition to save him from the persecutions every Republican had been made to suffer under the regime of the "great and good" Hampton. Patterson was glad to believe it, and we all know the result. I can find no one expressing any surprise at the base part (if this hypothesis is correct) which Butler seems to have played, among those acquainted with his antecedents. Patterson is alleged to have avoided Washington all summer to save himself from extradition, and to have kept so near the border of adjoining States as to easily dodge from one to another. But the refusal of Gov. Rice to give up Kempton to Confederate vengeance has greatly comforted Patterson's friends here. The failure of the SILVER CONGRESS Is a source of some mortification to those who advocated it as a fitting finale to the remonetization work accomplished at the last session of Congress, and it is not relieved by the sneering comments of their opponents. The fact is plain enough upon a candid review of the situation, that the object of the American representatives was impracticable under existing circumstances, and the representatives of the different nations came about as near to an agreement as we could have reasonably expected in view of the action several of them had but recently taken on the silver question.

KEARNEY Had no reason to felicitate himself on the impression he made here. His presence was almost wholly ignored by the reputable masses chiefly making up our labor organizations; and had it not been for the attention shown him by a few of the vagrant gang whose following deceived Cohen into the ridiculous belief that he was developing into a liberator of the laboring masses, he Kearney would have left Washington unnoticed. Other matters ordinarily of a good deal of interest now become of secondary concern about in proportion as the ravages of yellow fever become more extended, particularly in our direction. The fact that we are nearing one of the most important elections for Congressmen ever held also serves to intensify our interest in domestic politics to the exclusion of other questions that more or less completely engrossed our thoughts only a few weeks ago. Through the operation of these and similar causes our relations with MEXICO Have been crowded aside, though there has been no change rendering a rupture of our friendly relations more improbable. The views of the gentleman referred to in a late issue of the Star are novel, or at least have found little public expression; and as they suggest a method of solving our Southern border troubles without a resort to war, they are of general interest, and humanity demands for them dispassionate consideration. The Star says:

One of the most intelligent special agents of the Government, who has been on a special mission to the Mexican border, sends an interesting report of his visit to the Treasury Department. He traveled along the borders from the Rio Colorado to the Rio Grande. He says that something should be done by the Representatives of both countries to bring about a better condition of affairs. There are better ways, he thinks, of accomplishing this than by the marshaling of troops as a menace on the border. The high tariff on the products of the two countries engender and encourage smuggling. This, he suggests, is one of the principal and overlooked causes of the trouble on the border. Almost everybody is in sympathy with the smugglers. He advances the assertion that the only effective cure, the most peaceable and permanent solution to the entire problem, is 'reciprocity' between the two countries, by means of a treaty of commercial amity for free admission into both countries across the border of their respective products. He concludes by asking: "Have not England, France and Germany quietly obtained possession of the bulk of the Mexican trade, while the United States has been settling her border difficulties by correspondence, commissions, threats and armed encounters?" NEWS OF THE MORN'G.

The Presidential party are now in Chicago.

There are sixteen cases of yellow fever in Ohio.

A flood in Meadville, Pa., destroyed much property and several lives were lost.

The Cheyenne Indians have left their reservation and will take the war path.

Forty-six thousand Russian troops have embarked for home and 43,000 are yet to go.

Seventy eight more French Communists have been pardoned, or had their sentences commuted.

The rice plantations around Savannah were damaged by a gale and rain Thursday to the amount of $350,000.

No further news has been received regarding the reported massacre of soldiers at Yellowstone Park by Indians.

The French troops in New Caledonia have defeated the insurgent natives killing and wounding 130, including three chiefs killed.

The French troops in New Caledonia have completely defeated the insurgent natives, killing and wounding 130, including three chiefs killed.

A Paris dispatch says the editor of the Bonapartist journal, Le Pays, has been fined $300 and imprisoned three months for insulting President MacMahon.

In order to secure the adoption of the anti Socialist bill by the Reichstag, the Governments have declared their willingness to limit the time of its enforcement.

The weather is a little colder in the Southern States and it is hoped the fever will be abated, but as yet the distress is great. Memphis is one vast hospital.

The Albanian insurgents have celebrated the massacre of Mehmet Ali Pasha as a victory. The agitation in Albania is increasing, fresh outrages are apprehended, and the Christians are fleeing into Montenegro.

The Lynn Democrats Thursday evening elected 18 Butler and 18 anti Butler delegates to the State Convention. The Democrats of Taunton elected 21 delegates, all favoring Butler. Brockton and Hopkington elected anti Butler delegates.

The freight outfit of S. M. Booth, which left Custer City on Monday, was stopped in Red Canyon on Thursday afternoon by a band of road agents and robbed of horses, provisions, clothing, arms and money. Booth lost $1,200 in cash. The telegraph repairer was also stopped and robbed of arms, provisions and camping outfit.

EMBARKERY.

A murder trial came to a sudden ending in San Francisco on Thursday. A Mrs. Cynthia Hodgson was on trial for causing the death of another woman by abortion. One of the jurors in the case went to the son and daughter of the accused, and for the sum of $500 offered to "hang" the jury, with a possibility of an acquittal. This son and daughter revealed the secret and the base design to their mother's counsel, who told the Prosecuting Attorney, and he in open court exposed the villain, whereupon the Judge fined him $1,000 or 500 days imprisonment for violating the Code, in talking about the case, and took the more serious crime of embracery under consideration until the law could be upheld. The trial of the case was necessarily continued for the time being. What is the country coming to? Only a few days ago a Public Administrator kills a wealthy citizen to get total minister upon the estate. Now a juryman, for a few paltry dollars, attempts to thwart the ends of justice. Is the public mind becoming so diseased with corruption that life and property are in danger, and the very fountain head of justice itself but a mockery. Next we shall hear of a Judge, perchance, who, for $20 pieces, will decide in favor of the litigant who has the heaviest purse.

There has recently arrived in England a great work in size, if not in literary excellence. It is the great Chinese encyclopaedia, purchased for the British Museum, and consists of 5,020 volumes. It took forty years to compile it. The Commissioners professed to have taken all works from about 1100 B. C. to 1700 A. D., and it is apposed that the whole Chinese literature of any importance between those dates is to be found in these 5,020 volumes.

THE GUBERNATORIAL SITUATION.

Gov. Bradley is certain to be renominated by the Democrats, and it is almost equally certain that he will be re-elected—unless the Republican place, in the field a candidate who will be as much the poor man's friend, as Bradley is claimed to be. Gov. Bradley would not have been thought of for a third term but for his veto of the bullion tax bill. The moment he appended his signature to that measure he gained one thousand votes. The people believe that he is the only man who can save the Treasury from being raked; the fear that the money powers and railroad corporations also desire his defeat is an additional tower of strength to him. The opinion that he is honest and can not be corrupted makes him many friends. His administration has some good features and some very bad ones. His action in the DeLong matter, the vindictiveness with which he pursued Hyman, his approval of many infamous "relief" bills, and the general idea that he is not a fit man to be Governor of a great State like this, detracts from his popularity. Still he is what politicians would call a strong candidate.

The Republican side have Batterman, Connor and Kuukval. It is really too bad that the party is so divided on a candidate for Governor, not one of all those named being entirely free from objection. Did not the Constitution prohibit a Judge from being elected to any other office, Tom Hawley would be the most acceptable man to put at the head of the ticket. Of those now in the field we dislike to draw comparison. Connor can not be elected under any circumstances, Bradley would beat him 5,000 votes. He is not an actual resident, has never voted in the State, and his family have always lived in California. There are other reasons which render his nomination impolitic and unwise. Batterman is our beauideal for the Executive office, and we believe would make a splendid Governor—if he could be elected. He is well read, possessed of considerable Executive ability, and his personal appearance and manner all that could be desired. Yet it is this same distinct personality which the opposition claim makes him weak and alienates from his support those who like to speak of a man as "one of the boys." John H. Kuukval is one of God's own men, and the strongest man in the field. While possessing all the available qualifications of the others, he is so affable, and jolly, that his personal magnetism would rally the people to his support. He is a well educated man and so much in sympathy with the popular chord, that he would give the "old man" a tight race.

The Pitue prisoners sent out some time since to find and bring in Chief Hatch and party, supposed to be in the vicinity of Stein Mountain, returned to Camp Henry Thursday, bringing Hatch with three lodgers, twenty four Indians in all. The Indians were found hiding on the top Stein Mountain, not having heard of the surrender of Oils and the remainder of the Malheur Putes. There are still four lodges out, who are either hiding in the mountains near Warner or have gone to Camp Bill well to surrender. The people have returned to their ranches in the neighboring valleys without fear of further molestations from the Indians.

THE RENO JOURNAL comes to us in an enlarged form and an entire new dress. It is a good paper, an institution of Washoe county, and deserves the prosperity which has attended its career. May its measure of success continue to increase with its years. —Tacoma Times Review

Major, we shall remember you in the sweet bye and bye.

THE ORIGIN of the yellow fever is variously interpreted. Many people think it is owing to the wickedness of the last Congress; others that it is wholly due to the fraudulent "Returning Board" of Louisiana. It is a great question for the politico-medicoscientists of the country to settle.

THE RENO STATE JOURNAL, one of the best of the Nevada dailies, has been enlarged. In political sagacity there is no paper published in the State its superior. —S. F. Bulletin.

Praise from such a source is praise indeed.

INTEREST in the celebrated libel suit is now revived by the information that the trial of the DeYongs for the slander of Sargent and Page has been set for Monday next at Placerville.

DEPOSING A WICKED BISHOP.

There has been a disposition among religious organizations to condone and shield from justice, any transgressor who belonged to their church, and more especially so if he held the offices of minister, priest and bishop. Hence the moral reputation of the church has suffered, and is never above suspicion.

The Protestant Episcopal House of Bishops, which has just arisen from a business session in New York, did itself great credit, and served its Master faithfully, when it deposed Rev. Samuel Allen McCookrey, Bishop of the diocese of Michigan, for the crime of adultery. That venerable and highly talented canon of the Protestant Episcopal Church carried on a long liaison with a member of his society, and when the great crime was made public by the victim of his lecherous acts, he fled to Europe, with the grave accusation hanging over him. The House of Bishops, in solemn convocation, have voted unanimously to depose McCookrey. This was right, and stands out in bold relief against the usual whitewashing done by ecclesiastical bodies. The Congregational Church should have exhibited similar independence and justice in the case of Henry Ward Beecher. It would have thus avoided a stain, a blot and a mildew that Congregationalism can not expunge nor rub out in a century.

STOREY PRIMARIES.

The Enterprise of yesterday contains the following call to the Republicans of Storey County. It is signed by a large number of names: "Deeming the action of the Republican Central Committee of Storey County, in the appointment of delegates to the State Convention under tacit instructions, to be an unjust and arbitrary usurpation of power, as well as an insult to the Republicans of Storey County, we, the undersigned, Republicans of Storey County, do favor the holding of a primary election on Saturday, September 14, 1879, to elect by the popular voice of the party thirty seven unpledged delegates to the Republican State Convention, to assemble at Eureka, Nevada, September 18, 1879. The primaries will open at 9 o'clock A. M. and close at 5 o'clock P. M., and representative Republicans are requested to meet in full (Friday, Sept. 13) at 10 o'clock A. M., at the office of Hon. J. F. Lewis, to name delegates and arrange for polling places and to appoint Judges and Inspectors of Election.

A telegram from Salem, Oregon, of the 12th, says: Both Houses of the Legislature are at work, and over forty bills have already been introduced in the Senate, but none of particular importance. The Senatorial question is the all-absorbing subject. Caucuses are held each evening with no definite result. Slater and Strahan lead the rest, but the general opinion is that they cannot much increase their strength. Ex-Governor Chadwick will no doubt become stronger, and so will J. S. Smith. Much work is being done for Bush. His old ally Nesmith, recognizing that Bush has supported his aspirations for twenty five years, stands aside to give him the aid and all the aid he can. General Lane is here, but he is feeble from old age, and those who would support him if younger dare not do so now.

The following State Conventions will assemble during the rest of September: 16th. Louisiana Republican, New Orleans. 17th. Connecticut Democratic, New Haven. 17th. Massachusetts Democratic, Worcester. 18th. Massachusetts Republican, Worcester. 18th. Nevada Republican, Eureka. 18th. Louisiana National, New Orleans. 23rd. Nevada Democratic, Carson. 24th. Connecticut Republican, Hartford. 25th. New York Democratic, Syracuse. On the 28th the California Constitutional Convention meets.

The President has appointed Col. Mosby, the ex Confederate bushwhacking cavalry leader, to the Consulate at Hong Kong, China. The emoluments are worth about $9,000 a year. Good position for an ex-Feb, who was the leader of raiding cavalymen who murdered a great many Union citizens during the Rebellion.

The Paris correspondent of the London Telegraph says Victor Hugo's Histoire d'un Crime (history of the Third Empire,) has reached a sale of 165,000 copies. Also, that a very cheap edition, to be sold for two sous a number, is in press. Hugo is unquestionably the most popular living author in France.

The Boston Herald accuses General Benjamin F. Butler with "being worth two million dollars." This is a horrible accusation, and we question if any of the Herald editorial staff will ever be guilty of possessing so big a pile. Money leads to avarice, boys.

SITTING BELL and his entire force have left the British Possessions and are on this side of the line. They are reported to be splendidly armed and equipped.

THE Ophir Mining Company have levied an assessment of $1 per share on their capital stock, payable immediately and delinquent October 15th.

RARUS.

His Pedigree and Performance

The gelding Rarus, now at the head of the trotting turf, is the property of Mr. R. B. Conkling, of Greenport, Long Island, and is in his eleventh year. His sire, before he was purchased by Mr. Conkling, drew a shaft cart through the streets of New York and Brooklyn. The sum paid for the stallion was some two hundred and odd dollars, and Mr. Conkling sent the horse to his stock farm at Greenport.

All sporting men, as is natural, believe that blood will tell, but the case of Rarus is a glaring exception to this rule. George Wilkes and Mr. Conkling have used every endeavor to trace the pedigree of the stallion, but instead of discovering that once he was a trotter, they find he is of noble stock, and his occupation through life was that of propelling divers carts for different owners. Rarus' dam was by Telegraph, her mother being a Black Hawk. She is still alive. Rarus has one full brother whose best performance was a mile in about 2:40. The Fulton Market stallion is father to twenty horses besides the king of the trotting turf, and the best of them bear no better reputation than that of fair road steppers.

Rarus first appeared on the turf at the Suffolk County Fair, held in Riverhead, seven years ago this coming Fall. There he was entered for the "Four Year Old Stakes," the prize being a purse of fifty dollars. He won it in three straight heats, his best time being 2:43 $\frac{1}{2}$. His next appearance was at Honeoilleville, N. Y., in the following Spring, where he was entered in the 2:45 class—Young Meal handled the ribbons, but was unable to win the race. In the same year Rarus trotted a mile at Providence, R. I., in 2:20, and afterwards trotted two races at the Prospect Park course in about the same time. James W. Page, who now keeps a livery stable, had Rarus in charge during the following year and was very successful.

By hard work and careful handling Page put Rarus on record as a horse who could do his mile in 2:22 without a skip or break. The next year Rarus was taken to Philadelphia by Jim McMahon, who used to drive Flora Temple. The horse was entered in two races, but didn't succeed in getting a place in either. When Rarus returned from Philadelphia Mr. Conkling gave Johnny Spaulin charge of him, and Spaulin has handled the horse ever since. Two years ago Rarus was able to do a mile in 2:20, and since that time he has been lessening his time, until in Buffalo he electrified the trotting world by gaining the record of 2:13 $\frac{1}{2}$, which is three quarters of a second better than Goldsmith Maid's best time.

The now famous trotter's strong grip is his excellent averages, and some of them seem simply unapproachable. A few days ago, in Rochester, Rarus attempted to beat the average of 2:18, trotting three heats, but the horse was so tired out by his herculean efforts at Buffalo that he failed. At Hartford, on Friday of last week, he made a second trial, which was a great success. He trotted the fastest three consecutive heats ever trotted, viz: 2:15, 2:13 $\frac{1}{2}$, 2:13 $\frac{1}{2}$. In each heat Spaulin trotted for the world, and each was trotted without a break, and at its close he was loudly applauded by the large crowd of spectators, who were enthusiastic in their manifestation of admiration.

Mr Conkling was recently offered $65,000 for Rarus, it is stated, and without a moment's hesitation refused to listen to the proposition. The horse has made a fortune for both his owner and trainer, and if he does not meet with any accident, Rarus will still further enrich the two fortunate individuals who are benefited by his winnings, and most likely beat his present record.

A horse with a history somewhat like that of Rarus in a few particulars was Flora Temple. The mare was thought nothing of in her early youth, and was at one time the property of a butcher, who either bought or sold her for less than $100. When Flora Temple first made a mile in 2:40 she gained the position now occupied by Rarus, which was that of being the best trotter in a land of trotters. The mare never beat 2:20, but she earned more money, with the exception of Goldsmith Maid, than any horse that has yet appeared before the public as a candidate for trotting honors.

AN INTERRUPTED QUESTION.

Flirting on the beach, and in bathing costumes, often terminates most ludicrously. A case in point is reported by the Boston Commercial Bulletin: It was said the breakers at Rye Beach, and he held her hand as the rolling surf came in, and they let it dash its billows around them waist-deep, when a pretty thought occurred to him, and turning his back to the surf, he said something about the "envious billows encircling her waist," and then, as he squeezed her dripping palm, felt emboldened to ask, "Should you not always like to have this hand to lead y—?" Just then a big roller which he had not calculated for came in, and he was rudely carried shoreward, over and over—a suspicious sound, as of feminine laughter, rising above the rattle of the shingle and the retreating billows, as he rose to his feet with his eyes full of beach sand and salt water, and one of those great clammy bits of seaweed that the boys call devil's apron clinging around his neck. It required nearly a quarter of an hour to get rid of the embarrassment of the affair and the sand in his ears, and when that was accomplished and he was again at her side, and ventured to remark that he had pronounced an interogatory "I know it," she replied, "but I thought the question was waived." Just then he had to jump for another roller, and then guessed he had stayer in long enough.
